

Home Power Generator: The Backstory

Richard Lighthouse

Dr Steven Greer & Bill Colby

The invention was apparently already operational in the 1990's. It was first described by Dr Steven Greer in 1996, after he arranged to meet with former CIA Director, William Colby. Colby had offered to bring a working model of a free-energy device, that operated on the principals of zero-point energy, to share with Dr Greer. The device was described as, about the size of a large microwave oven. Unfortunately, a few days before the intended meeting, Colby was found dead, floating in the river near his vacation home.

<https://www.washingtonpost.com/archive/politics/1996/05/07/colbys-body-found-along-river-shore/97b484d0-6f52-4ec2-958b-a9efb3a76ffe/>

/

CIA Involvement

“You know, there’s a former CIA director who was going to hand-off one of these devices to us, and about $50 million dollars in sort of seed money so we could get it out, who, the week he was going to meet with a member of my board they found him floating down the Potomac River. Absolutely true, Bill Colby. Everyone thinks it was an accident or he committed suicide; no. His best friend came to me and said ‘he was taken out...networks’. It’s called networks, assassination team. And, again, he was trying to do it clandestinely.”

— Dr Steven Greer, MD

Dr Steven Greer talks about Bill Colby’s death:

<https://archive.org/details/WhyWasFormerCiaDirectorWilliamColbyAssassinated>

/

Free technical papers by Richard Lighthouse on Academia.edu:

<https://independent.academia.edu/RichardLighthouse>

Richard Lighthouse provides the basic technical details for a nearly-free power generation device, that utilizes the zero-point. The basic mathematics are also provided.

https://www.academia.edu/105660193/Home_Power_Generator_using_Zero_Point_Energy_with_Math_Equation